

At the event, free-will donations will be accepted to help support the Unitarian Universalist United Nations Office (UU-UNO), the UU voice for social justice on the international stage. In collaboration with other NGOs, it plays a strong role in promoting human rights, sustainable development and disarmament, the end of gender-based violence, and ending child hunger, poverty and enslavement. Specifically, the UU-UNO has taken a leadership role in the founding of the International Criminal Court, the UN Humanitarian Commission, and, more recently, the extension of LGBT rights throughout the world.

"This program is part of UUEstrie's ongoing concern with social justice and humanitarian issues throughout the world," said Rev. Carole Martignacco, minister of the Unitarian Universalist spiritual community. "Our goal is compassionate action through education."

For more information about the October 25th event, contact 819-842-4146 or info@uuestrie.ca

photo RA Garber

Glacier, PhD, is to talk about ISIS on Sunday in North Hatley.